

Bellantoni, Petersen and Yunis of RKF act for Nida in 2,100 s/f lease

January 10, 2011 - Spotlights

Robert K. Futterman & Associates (RKF) recently secured a 2,100 s/f space for urban clothier Nida at 571-573 Hudson St., located between West 11th and Bank Sts. in the borough's West Village. Scheduled to open its first New York location this winter, Nida will occupy 1,050 s/f on the ground and 1,050 s/f in the basement.

RKF executive vice president Karen Bellantoni and director Caleb Petersen represented the tenant, while executive vice president and principal Amira Yunis and director Jared Lack of Newmark Knight Frank Retail represented the landlord, 571 Hudson Street Corp.

"Nida was looking to find an ideal location to serve as its East Coast presence and the West Village was a viable option, with its incredible storefronts and visibility," said Bellantoni. "The pedestrian traffic and nearby food options will help position this brand in a growing retail corridor."

Nida is based in San Francisco, California and features a collection of edgy urban clothing, shoes, and accessories with an array of styles for men and women and heavily influenced by European design and workmanship. This boutique store hosts a collection of designer labels and displays and sells neoteric works by local San Francisco artists.
