

Edward D'Orazio 2011

January 24, 2011 - Long Island

Name: Edward D'Orazio, AIA

Title: Principal, Architect

Company: Edward D'Orazio, AIA Architects

Location: 11 Lt. John Olsen Lane, St. James, NY 11780

Birth date and location: 2/27/55, New York City

Family: Wife Helene, daughter Elise and son Steven.

College: New York Institute of Technology

First job outside of real estate: Retail sales (Sears).

It taught me a lot about how to deal with people.

First job in real estate or allied field: Reckson Associates Rlty. Corp.-architect.

What do you do now and what are you planning for the future? We are an innovative professional services firm specializing in architecture, planning, interior corporate design and design/build projects with over 30 years experience representing local, regional and national tenants, developers and landlords with commercial office, retail and industrial properties. We are excited by the opportunities that these challenging times present and intend to remain a resource to the real estate community by providing the innovative design solutions necessary to help you bring our client's goals to fruition.

We provide our clients with large firm experience, expertise and professional credentials with the efficiencies of a lean, aggressive firm. We are licensed in NY, NJ, CT, PA, SC, & MN.

Hobbies: Travel, golf, fishing, reading, theater

Favorite book: The Lone Survivor by Marcus Luttrell

Favorite movie: Man of La Mancha

Person you admire most: My wife, her drive and never ending efforts to make a better life for our family.

Key to success: Lessons learned from my father about life, people and taking the high road.

If you had to choose another vocation what would it be? Medical doctor, perhaps a surgeon.