

The Long Island Commercial Network hosts semi annual gala and installation dinner

February 22, 2011 - Long Island

On January 18th, The Long Island Commercial Network had its semi annual gala and installation dinner at the Fox Hollow Inn. It was a rousing success as so many existing and new members attended. The dinner is a free event for members and affords a wonderful opportunity to network and develop relationships that carry them into the coming year. Members have found that learning about each other's area of expertise is useful information. It makes for great business partners that help us get the job done, property sold, leased or acquired.

The president of LIBOR, Liz English, presided over the installation of the executive board and board of directors. There were lots of appreciative winners of our well known free raffle prizes that are provided by the organization, sponsors and others who so generously donate.
