

Tindel Windows and Lawrence Restoration align to provide services

March 07, 2011 - Design / Build

Two of the New York Metro Area's premier building envelope renovation companies recently formed a strategic alliance. Tindel Windows and Lawrence Exterior Restoration have joined forces under the same ownership. Their objective is to offer a full complement of professional services for both window installation and all aspects of facade/roofing restoration to the real estate community.

"Tindel is well known throughout the New York Metro Area as the premier window installation company. Lawrence Exterior Restoration is an equally outstanding company, which has developed a reputation for excellence in its field over the last 11 years," said Andrew Sirotkin, one of the principal partners of Tindel and Lawrence.

Co-headquartered in Whitestone, the strategic alignment of Tindel and Lawrence will combine sales, marketing, engineering, financial and other resources to offer their clients a complete turnkey approach to addressing their building envelope needs.

Brad Coleman, vice president of Lawrence, said, "Tindel and Lawrence each have been in the industry for many years and have well established customer bases. Tindel's customers have had facade restoration needs, and Lawrence's customers have had window needs, so it was natural to align the companies going forward." By strengthening their joint marketing and operating efforts, Tindel and Lawrence will leverage the capabilities of each company to serve their customers more efficiently and completely at an attractive price point.

For over 25 years, Tindel Windows has been the firm of choice for all window needs for the real estate community in the New York Metro Area. Having successfully completed numerous multi-million dollar projects, Tindel is moving towards completion of a $60 million contract for the replacement of 130,000 windows at Co-Op City in the Bronx, the largest contract of its kind. With a solid reputation for financial strength and stability, the firm readily handles large and complex projects through its experienced professional staff, capable "hands-on" management and superior relationships with all major window manufacturers.

Lawrence Restoration specializes in all aspects of exterior facade restoration and roof replacement systems. Since 1999, the firm has provided expert services for all types of buildings, including multi-family, commercial, retail, institutional and industrial, to the New York Metro Area's most notable building clientele.
