

Stalco promotes Wade

May 23, 2011 - Long Island

Stalco Construction, Inc. promoted Malcolm Wade to assistant director of marketing and sales.

Stalco is a full-service commercial general contracting and construction management firm active in New York City, the Greater New York area, and on Long Island. The value of Stalco's on-going projects exceeds $80 million.

Wade's responsibilities include developing relationships with commercial, institutional, retail, religious, and industrial clients throughout New York City and Long Island.

He joined Stalco in 2009, following two decades of experience in providing professional services to real estate clients. His promotion to the new marketing position follows two years of work in a construction capacity.

Wade's construction and real estate maintenance experience encompasses both commercial and public projects, including CA, Inc. Headquarters, Three Village School District, and Bank of Smithtown. He holds an Associate Degree in mechanical engineering from Suffolk Community College in Selden, NY.

Wade is a member of Contractors For Kids Advisory Board and frequently volunteers his cooking skills as grillman of the famous Stalco Grillmobile for charity fundraising events throughout the region.
