

T.M. Bier & Associates launches www.tmba.com

October 24, 2011 - Long Island

T.M. Bier & Associates, Inc. (TMBA), one of the New York area's leading independent controls systems engineering companies, has launched a new website (www.tmba.com) which, according to president Ted Bier, P.E., "better captures and reflects the TMBA brand as a leader in dynamic energy management."

Showcased in the new website, designed by Didit, is TMBA's status as the region's largest, independent and fully-licensed energy service company (ESCO). Also projected are the company's broad capabilities across key disciplines including: HVAC controls, building automation, lighting controls, security and service.

In addition to presenting TMBA's capabilities and providing educational information, www.tmba.com includes a "Portfolio" section which will showcase different projects on a rotating basis.

"We are especially proud of our new website's role as an information resource to commercial property owners and managers," said Bier.
