

Nassau County IDA launches new website

October 24, 2011 - Long Island

The Nassau County Industrial Development Agency has launched a new website designed to help attract businesses to the county and help existing businesses to expand.

The new site (www.nassauida.org), now live, offers 16 pages of economic and demographic data to aid businesses considering relocation to Nassau County or an expansion.

Also available on the site are maps, descriptions of tax-abatement programs and bond financing, case studies of five companies assisted by the IDA and information about neighborhoods and school districts.

"We want to give companies information in an easy-to-navigate website that will be very helpful to executives in making decisions," said IDA chairman Jeffrey Seltzer.
