

Empire National Bank promotes Pinna

March 26, 2012 - Long Island

John Pinna has been promoted to executive vice president of Empire National Bank, a full-service community bank. Prior to this appointment, he held the title of senior vice president. Pinna has been a member of Empire National's management team since the financial institution's 2008 launch.

"With close to 25 years of banking industry expertise, John has been instrumental in the development and growth of the bank's technology and operations sectors," said Empire National Bank's chairman and chief executive officer Douglas Manditch.

Prior to joining Empire National Bank, Pinna held the title of senior vice president and management information officer at Long Island Commercial Bank.
