

Mack-Cali property honored at BOMA's Mid-Atlantic Regional awards

May 21, 2012 - Front Section

According to Mack-Cali Realty Corp., Eisenhower/280 Corporate Center has received "The Outstanding Building of the Year" (TOBY) award in the Suburban Office Park - Low Rise Division category from the Middle Atlantic Regional Conference of the Building Owners and Managers Association (BOMA).

The award was presented at the Middle Atlantic Regional Awards Dinner on Friday, April 20 at The Carnegie Music Hall in Pittsburgh, Penn. The TOBY Awards honor buildings for excellence in building management, with all facets of a property's operations evaluated, including building maintenance, operational efficiency, tenant retention, emergency preparedness, and community impact.

Mitchell Hersh, Mack-Cali president and chief executive officer, said, "This award is an excellent demonstration of Mack-Cali's continuing commitment to upholding the highest standards for the management of our premier office properties."

Eisenhower/280 Corporate Center will be entered into the International Outstanding Building of the Year Award competition. The winners of the International Awards will be announced at the TOBY Awards banquet held during the BOMA International Conference in Seattle, Washington, on June 26, 2012.
