

Tully Rinckey and Hannaford hold fourth annual Turkeys for Veterans

December 11, 2012 - Upstate New York

In an effort to give thanks for the sacrifices of active duty service members, veterans and families of those serving abroad, Tully Rinckey PLLC and Hannaford Supermarkets provided free turkeys to active duty and retired military personnel this past Thanksgiving through the law firm's fourth annual "Turkeys for Veterans" program.

Officials from Tully Rinckey PLLC and Hannaford Supermarkets hand delivered the turkeys to active duty service members and veterans at the law firm's headquarters.

This Thanksgiving marked the fourth year for the "Turkeys for Veterans" program. Since the program's inception in 2009, Tully Rinckey PLLC has provided the Thanksgiving table centerpiece for the family members of over 300 active duty and retired military personnel in the greater Capital Region.

"As we give thanks for our own good fortune this holiday, we cannot help but to reflect upon the great sacrifices made by the men and women who have fought for our country. The Turkeys for Veterans program has become a tradition that we look forward to year-round," said Tully Rinckey PLLC managing partner and U.S. Army veteran Greg Rinckey. "We are excited to partner with Hannaford to continue the program and provide a small token of gratitude and appreciation to our nation's military personnel."

"All of us at Hannaford are honored to work with Tully Rinckey to offer a sense of comfort, home and warmth to those who so selflessly dedicate their lives to serving our country," said Hannaford Supermarkets community relations specialist Molly Tarleton.

Tully Rinckey PLLC has a long-standing record of service with the military. Throughout its four offices, the firm employs 41 attorneys, 20 percent of whom are veterans of the U.S. Army, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, and Navy or are currently serving in the U.S. Army and National Guard Reserve.

The firm's founding partner, Mathew Tully, is a lieutenant colonel in the New York Army National Guard who recently received a Purple Heart while serving in Afghanistan. As a civilian attorney, he has won numerous landmark decisions protecting veterans' rights, especially those pertaining to the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA). Managing partner Greg Rinckey is a former Army JAG who currently represents service members worldwide in a variety of military law issues.

Tully Rinckey PLLC is a full-service law firm with offices in Albany, Syracuse, Washington, D.C. and Arlington, V.A. The firm is nationally recognized for its legal work in military law and is one of the Capital Region's largest full-service firms with attorneys practicing divorce, child custody, bankruptcy, real estate law, estate planning, civil litigation, criminal defense, and employment law.
