If you've answered yes to any of these questions, then mark your calendars for the BuildingsNY event, taking place April 24th - 25th at the Javits Convention Center in N.Y.C. This year's event will feature over 350 Exhibitors, with 170 new vendors focused on helping you drive more profits for your buildings. In addition, you won't want to miss the free education panels on the hottest, leading edge topics presented by the ABO, BOMA/NY, CHIP, NYARM, and Green Light New York. At BuildingsNY 2013, you will find a year's worth of solutions in just 2 days.

BuildingsNY 2013 continues to evolve to better suit the industry's needs. We listened to your feedback and made many changes to build you a better show. We have deeper relationships with current and new partners, ABO (the show founder), BOMA/NY, CHIP, NYARM, S.P.O.N.Y., GreenPearl and our VIP lounge sponsor LandlordsNY.

We're expecting to welcome over 7,000 industry professionals to this year's event. BuildingsNY is where hundreds of vendors will be displaying products for every phase of a building's lifecycle. You will see new products and services in richer categories including building automation, energy management, financing, restoration and renovation, design & construction, environmental, maintenance & operations and security and disaster relief. Sourcing products and services will be a productive and time-saving experience.

This year's BuildingsNY 2013 education program features free education and accredited programs produced by the industry, the BuildingsNY partners. In addition, BuildingsNY will feature a paid program produced by GreenPearl focusing on the commercial real estate market. The BuildingsNY Show will kick off with a free mayoral keynote forum produced by the ABO. In 2013, the overall educational program is designed to help you with the challenges and requirements most important to our NY metro area building owners, property managers, architects, engineers and LEED professionals.

BuildingsNY is all about the business of owning and managing a building in N.Y.C. and the outer boroughs. The show promotes an opportunity to meet and network with people and to make connections and build relationships with industry peers.
