

BOMA LI to host panel discussion

February 29, 2008 - Long Island

You read about it daily in the media - the mortgage crisis, the challenges facing Long Island, the difficulty of obtaining capital and more. How does this impact commercial real estate in the area, and where is our business heading? BOMA-LI is hosting a panel discussion featuring experts on the Long Island economic situation and focused on the information that building owners and managers need to know now. It will be held on March 13 at 8:15 a.m. at 68 South Service Rd., lower level auditorium

* Moderator: David Winzelberg, Real Estate Reporter, LIBN and Spaced Out blog

* Panelist: Martin Cantor, director of the L.I. Economic and Social Policy Institute at Dowling College; a former Suffolk County Economic Development commissioner; Adjunct associate professor of Economics and author of "Long Island, The Global Economy and Race: The Aging of America's First Suburb."

* Panelist: Clifford Sondock, president, Land Use Institute.

* Panelist: Barry Stein, president, Rohman & Stein Associates; Associate Adjunct professor, New York University; education committee chair, the Real Estate Practitioner's Institute.
