

Mullo joins ALC Environmental as COO

August 26, 2013 - Green Buildings

Pat Mullo has joined environmental consulting firm ALC Environmental as its COO. Mullo brings more than 30 years of industry experience to ALC and he will become the principal in charge. He will be directing and supporting the firm's technical operations from their N.Y.C. offices.

"Pat brings deep industry knowledge of the Environmental Consulting field in the NYC Metro marketplace. He is a proven leader with a great record of success in leading teams and developing business lines," said ALC CEO, Josh Sarett.

"Pat will play a key role in helping to advise our loyal clients on solving their environmental issues by drawing on his technical expertise and practical know how."

With initial experience running technical divisions for Hall-Kimbrell, PSI, Kemron, JLC Environmental and EMTEQUE Corporation. Mullo's background is rich in technical expertise, business development, and day to day operations for all these companies. At his most recent job where he worked for 13 years, he was the technical director and operations manager for all of the industrial hygiene and building science divisions within the company. Mullo helped grow the company from a small NYC firm to a regional player with local and national clients. He has managed jobs that include the New York City Housing Authority, Texaco/Chevron & the JFK International Airport. Mullo has a degree in Environmental Health from St. John's University and maintains numerous industry licenses in multiple states.

"We believe Pat is a key addition to our team in NYC and he is much more than just an 'environmental guy' We are extremely excited about his ability to lead our dedicated team of professionals and provide technical support, but also value his business acumen. He has already made major contributions to the ALC team in the short time he has been on board."

Founded in 1996, ALC Environmental is a Nationally Renowned Environmental Consulting, Training and Management Firm. Our team of experienced professionals has worked with most major banks, landlords, architects, engineers and public agencies including throughout the NYC and the northeast.
