

Old Dominion Freight Line opens new facility at 11 Seventh Street

April 07, 2014 - Upstate New York

Old Dominion Freight Line, Inc. relocated its Albany Service Center to a larger facility - making room for the company's continued growth in Upstate New York.

The newly constructed service center located at 11 Seventh St., contains 72 doors - a 45% increase from the previous facility. Old Dominion employs 50 people at this location.

The service center benefits from its close distance to I-90 and 87. The company has maintained a presence in the area since 1998.

"With 33 additional doors, this state-of-the-art service center will help us keep up with strong demand for LTL services in the region," said Mike McGinness manager of the Albany Service Center. "We look forward to upholding Old Dominion's promise to deliver premium service to all its customers from our new and improved facility."

The Albany Service Center provides direct service throughout Upstate New York, including Albany, Kingston, Schenectady, Clifton Park, Saratoga Springs, Glens Falls, Gloversville and Johnstown.

The facility is located at 11 Seventh St. and is one of five Old Dominion service centers in the state of New York. Old Dominion also maintains facilities in Brooklyn, Buffalo, Long Island and Syracuse.
