

Hagerup joins EVO Real Estate Group

June 23, 2015 - Front Section

Christopher Hagerup has joined EVO Real Estate Group, a member of NAI Global, as a real estate advisor, according to Dana Moskowitz, the firm's president.

Hagerup will focus on tenant representation, strategic consulting, lease negotiations and client-specific market analysis.

"Chris comes to EVO with established relationships with companies in the technology, media, fashion and arts sectors," notes Ms. Moskowitz. "We're very impressed with his enthusiasm for real estate and his leadership abilities. In short, he's a great fit for our team."

Mr. Hagerup began his career at JLL in Washington, D.C., specializing in tenant representation. He then moved to New York, where he served as the youngest vice president at CRESA. Most recently, Mr. Hagerup worked as a director of commercial real estate at Tungsten Property, a boutique real estate firm in SoHo.

Mr. Hagerup received a B.A. in public and private management from Indiana University in Bloomington, where he was a quarterback and punter for the Hoosiers' football team.

Mr. Hagerup is a licensed real estate salesperson in New York, the District of Columbia, and Virginia. He is a member of the Real Estate Board of New York, the New York Chamber of Commerce, and the Indiana University Alumni Association.
