Baychester is a working class neighborhood geographically located in the northeast Bronx borough of New York City. The neighborhood is part of Bronx Community Board 12. Its boundaries, starting from the north and moving clockwise are Baychester Ave. to the north, the New England Thruway to the east, East Gun Hill Road to the south, and Boston Road to the west. Eastchester Rd. is the primary thoroughfare through Baychester.

Unlike most of Bronx which was opened up when the subway was extended from Manhattan, the Baychester area of the Bronx was made practical by construction of Long Island Bridges and the Bruckner Expressways. Apart from Co-Op city, one of the largest housing developments in the United States, the neighborhood consists principally of one and two family houses. The total land area is roughly one square mile. The area is low laying and flat. Baychester currently has a population of 10,000. The neighborhood is predominately African American. Zip codes include 10469. The area is patrolled by the 47th Precinct located at 4111 Laconia Ave., in the Williamsbridge section of the Bronx.

The Baychester area is a growing area of the Bronx. In the past three years over 100 homes have built just on Ely Avenue and the street next to it, Arnow Ave. River and head of Eastchester Bay. Nearby towns include Eastchester, Laconia & Pelham Harbor, which like Baychester is currently one of the most sought after areas of the Bronx.

"Our aim is to build houses that are both beautiful and functional," said president of Stellar Development, Ben and Joe Shavolian. " It has been personally rewarding for us to be part of the revitalization of Baychester. One of the best methods to preserve communities through new housing development, is to offer opportunities for working New Yorkers to buy property in their own neighborhoods. That is what the new houses on Ely Avenue are all about," said Ben Shavolian.
