What was your most notable project 2017?

My most notable project is Circa Central Park, a new residential building located on the northwest circle of Central Park. I started on this project in 2014 during the early interior layout phases and was able to lead the building through to its completion last year—a rare opportunity that I feel fortunate to have worked with such a great team and client.

When I am not working, I am...

Likely running around, literally. I love running, both racing and training, which provides many opportunities to run alongside incredibly passionate, determined, and driven individuals (of all shapes, sizes, backgrounds).
