

Cambridge Security to provide services for Netherland Gardens

August 08, 2008 - Owners Developers & Managers

Cambridge Security Services, one of the nation's leading boutique security firms, has been tapped to provide the security detail for Netherland Gardens, a 460-unit cooperative. Â Having provided security services for a broad range of residential properties throughout the New York Metropolitan area as well as working with some of the largest and most notable developers and management companies in the industry including Excelsior Management, Grenadier Realty Corp, Cooper Square, Trump Management and Rudd Realty, Cambridge's experience with residential security is unparalleled. Â Highly-trained, professional security officers will be on the premises every night ensuring the safety and security of all residents.

Netherlands Gardens is a park-like, private cooperative consisting of four mid-rise, multifamily buildings built on six exquisite acres of land in Northern Riverdale, one block west of the intersection of 256th St. and Riverdale Ave. With an on-site management office and superintendent and a location just blocks away from public transportation, restaurants and shopping, Netherland Gardens provides its residents with the utmost in convenience and a sense of community. Now, with the addition of the Cambridge team, residents will also enjoy the highest caliber of protective services.

Cooper Square Realty is the managing agent for the building.

Cambridge Security Services has been providing exceptional customized and comprehensive security for nearly 25 years. The firm remains committed to the highest level of customer service and dedicated to offering the newest and most effective technologies to keep our clients and their businesses safe.

Cambridge has built strong relationships with a broad range of customers in both the public and private sectors including real estate development and management firms, co-op and condominium boards, housing authorities, government agencies, religious institutions, financial and professional services firms, manufacturers, event planners and high-profile individuals. Â With an expert management team, more than 750 security professionals on staff and a network of national affiliates, Cambridge Security continually sets the highest standard for excellence.
