

Glenwood's Barclay Tower 100% leased

August 18, 2008 - Front Section

According to Glenwood, developer, owner and manager of rentals, it has leased 100% of the residences at Barclay Tower, located at 10 Barclay St. just west of Broadway. The newest building, one of three properties that Glenwood owns downtown, is within the Tribeca neighborhood.

Barclay Tower, with 396 units, offers amenities including a lobby with a 24-hour doorman. In addition, there is a fitness center with a yoga/stretching room, a 50-ft. lap swimming pool, whirlpool spa, and a children's playroom. The property has one, two and three-bedroom apartments and no more than nine apartments per floor.

For over four decades, Glenwood has been dedicated to improving and enriching the "quality of life" offered in each of its Manhattan rental buildings. Locations, amenities, lobbies, and services are benchmark qualities that have become synonymous with the Glenwood name. The continuity established as owner, builder and manager for each of its properties has garnered Glenwood accolades as one of the leader in its field. They continue to maintain their status in the industry by providing the highest standards of living for their residents. Innovative design, superior construction and meticulous supervision of building personnel distinguish all Glenwood residences.
