

Racanelli Construction Co. names Matassa project superintendent

December 03, 2019 - Long Island

Melville, NY Racanelli Construction Company, Inc. appointed Michael Matassa as project superintendent. Matassa brings over four decades of commercial and residential construction experience, and holds a New York City superintendent license along with the required OSHA 30 credential.

Prior to joining Racanelli Construction, Matassa served as a project supervisor with Matassa Construction, Inc. There, he applied skills and experience stemming from his earliest position in the industry as a laborer and subsequent roles as he steadily advanced to the role of project supervisor. His skills are broad and range from subcontractor scheduling and supervision, deadline management, documentation and reporting, to building codes and regulations, construction materials and equipment, construction quality standards and best practices.

Matassa holds a Master in Business Administration (MBA) in Small Business Management from the University of Phoenix, a Bachelor of Applied Science (BAS) from St. Francis College and an Associate of Science (AAS) degree from SUNY Farmingdale.
