Natalie Seagriff

James Doody

Troy, NY SWBR welcomes Natalie Seagriff as project manager and James Doody as project designer.

Seagriff is responsible for managing a variety of commercial and residential projects through every phase, from design through construction completion. Seagriff's background working in both private practice and large and small firms make her a welcome addition to the team. Her clients trust her as a skilled communicator and for her ability to facilitate their vision for the project. She has a Bachelor of Architecture from University of Miami and master's in construction management from New York University.

“Meaningful design is providing a built environment that not only satisfies the client's needs but has a positive and lasting impact on the community,” said Seagriff.

Doody assists project architects with design and construction documentation on a variety of commercial, multifamily, and mixed-use housing projects. He has a Bachelor of Architecture from New York Institute of Technology.
