List 2-3 real estate associations or organizations that you are currently a member of:

American Institute of Architects;
Queens Foundation for Architecture;
Richmond Hill Historical Society

What recent project, transaction or accomplishment are you most proud of?

I received the 2021 AIA New York State Honor Award. The AIA New York State Annual Honor Awards celebrate architects, educators, and firms throughout New York state that have contributed significantly to the profession of architecture. I received this award for my continued service, contributions and dedication to AIA New York State and to the profession of architecture.

How do you contribute to your community or your profession?

I share my experiences by teaching in high school, colleges, mentoring, leading tours, community outreach, and writing. I make my experiences available to both students and professionals. In so doing, I create great experiences for people to learn about architectural history, construction, urban planning, design and real estate development.

What led you to your current profession?

My genetic fabric and family history are made up of architects, engineers, artists, musicians, and designers. In other words, it runs in my family. I made up my mind to become an architect in elementary school and never waivered since.
