What led you to your current profession?

While finishing my bachelor's degree eleven years ago, I already had some diverse marketing experience under my belt. I have worked for large and small organizations. Local, regional, and international firms. Marketing agencies, the biotech industry, micro-chip manufacturing corporations, and more. Each experience in which I applied the foundations of effective marketing in that time fueled my passion for learning, adapting, and applying the next best thing to another industry. The blending of commercial real estate, digital marketing, and prop-tech was captivating. It provided a platform in which I could directly see and feel the confident impacts of my efforts.
