Jessica Stander

New York, NY Jessica Stander has joined Denham Wolf Real Estate Services' (Denham Wolf) project management services department as a senior project manager. With a background in the field of architecture and 20 years of design and capital project management experience, Stander brings a tactful and creative approach to all aspects of her work.

"We are confident that with her institutional knowledge and passion for the industry, Jessica will excel as a team member at Denham Wolf and deliver excellent results for our clients. Having collaborated with Jessica on many successful projects since 2003, we are excited to bring her in-house," said Ronzard Innocent, director of project management at Denham Wolf. "Her knowledge of the industry and decades of experience will elevate our work, and I'm looking forward to seeing all that Jessica will accomplish in this role."

Standar is a registered architect with two decades of experience as an architectural project manager. Through her history, she has developed a mastery of management and an ability to oversee diverse project types. As part of the project management services team at Denham Wolf, Standar will guide nonprofits through the design and construction phases of each project.

From preliminary planning to occupancy, Standar's ability to lead capital projects with complex phasing will help ensure that clients' physical spaces support their mission.

"With a lifelong interest in working on not-for-profit, community-based, and mission-led projects, I'm thrilled to be joining Denham Wolf's Project Management Services team," said Standar. "I look forward to sharing my expertise in architectural design and planning, project management, and construction across Denham Wolf's service areas."

Standar was previously a Senior Associate and Project Manager at Gertler & Wente Architects. She led a team of designers and completed projects for educational and religious institutions, healthcare organizations, and other nonprofits. In past roles, Standar developed an ability to navigate zoning laws, design cohesive plans, and balance stakeholder interests, which will further support her work at Denham Wolf. She understands Denham Wolf's mission-led approach and has worked extensively with clients in the organization's areas of expertise.

Standar holds a bachelor's degree from Vassar College and a Masters in Architecture from Harvard University Graduate School of Design.
