

Suffolk Construction Co. opens Division in Mid-Atlantic, names Arnold president

November 19, 2007 - Front Section

Suffolk Construction Co., Inc. has opened its new Mid-Atlantic Division, continuing its strategy of expansion and diversification . Reginald Arnold, a 24-year construction veteran with experience in the Washington D.C. region, was appointed as the Mid-Atlantic Division's president and general manager. In his new role, Arnold will establish Suffolk's business direction, strategy and new business initiatives in the Mid-Atlantic region. The Mid-Atlantic office is immediately targeting building construction projects and clients in four main sectors: commercial, hospitality, multifamily residential and federal government.

"The Mid-Atlantic construction market is experiencing significant growth, and our new division puts us in a strong position to capitalize on the many building construction opportunities this region has to offer," said John Fish, CEO, Suffolk Construction Co., Inc.

"Having worked in the Mid-Atlantic construction market for some time, I am confident that our new Falls Church, Virginia office will play a critical role in Suffolk's regional diversification strategy. We are very excited to work with the owners, architects and subcontractors in this region so we can demonstrate our unique approach to client service and exceed their expectations," said Arnold.

Reginald Arnold joins Suffolk Construction from HITT Contracting, where he served as executive vice president.
