“Christian has consistently demonstrated his unwavering commitment to the team by meeting deadlines and continually striving to learn as a rising star. His dedication goes above and beyond, setting a commendable example for his colleagues.” - Thomas Scotto, AIA, NCARB, Principal, Director of Operations at SPECTOR Companies.

How do you balance your rising career with your personal life? I maintain a healthy balance between my career and personal life by establishing clear boundaries between them. I find it rewarding to fully disengage from work during my designated time off, which, in turn, allows me to be fully productive during work hours.

Beyond your professional achievements, what are some of your passions or hobbies? Beyond my professional endeavors, I get great enjoyment from exploring various musical artists and trying my hand at playing their most renowned songs on the guitar. Immersing myself in music provides a comforting and enriching sanctuary, offering relaxation and personal growth.

Who are the key people in your life that have contributed to your success? The individuals who have had the most profound impact on my success are undoubtedly my parents and my fiancée. Throughout my educational and professional endeavors, my parents and fiancée offered unwavering emotional support and provided me with motivation and confidence to propel me forward.

Outside of your career, where else do you seek continuous learning and personal growth? The consistent presence of the church in my life has been instrumental in my personal growth. My spiritual life has taught me valuable lessons in compassion and hard work, allowing for deeper connections with others and encouraging me to give my all in every aspect of my life.
