“Brittany oversaw the ground-floor redevelopment of 885 Third Avenue, Manhattan’s iconic ‘Lipstick Building,’ from concept design through construction. She worked closely with the client, led the project teams, and collaborated with consultants to ensure the quality of the project exceeded expectations and opened at the end of 2023.” - Kate Perez, Director at MdeAS Architects.

How do you balance your rising career with your personal life? It’s a constant ebb and flow. Pursuing physical, emotional and spiritual activities regulate my headspace and allow me to feel balanced. Having sport as an outlet has been particularly grounding. I frequently play sand volleyball; it is my source of exercise, social time, connection with nature and the sun.

Beyond your professional achievements, what are some of your passions or hobbies? Beach volleyball, travel, and real estate investment. In 2022, I made my first investment in a Philadelphia duplex that I flipped into a rental property. I loved the creative and logistical balance required to reach my goals within a feasible time and budget. I’m constantly on the lookout for the next opportunity.
