

2024 Ones to Watch Industry Leaders: Joel Richardson, H2M architects + engineers

May 28, 2024 - Spotlights

Joel Richardson, P.E.
Assistant VP, Department Manager – Civil Engineering

“Joel Richardson, P.E., is an industry leader providing engineering for premier projects on Long Island. Joel is the project manager for the Station Yards transit-oriented development. This project integrates residential, office, and retail into one cohesive development, laying the groundwork for broader economic growth and environmental benefits across the region.” - Rich Humann, P.E., President and CEO at H2M architects + engineers.

In the last 12 months what accomplishment are you most proud of? Our team has been engaged in the most significant land development projects in our region. It is amazing to reflect on the diverse range of projects that we have been fortunate to be a part of. We have experienced substantial growth in our team's size and in each individual role. I am most proud of the team we have built. My team has embraced every opportunity presented to them and appreciates and supports one another.

Best advice for new leaders: Select the best people. Give them the opportunity to succeed.
