

DeSimone Consulting Engineering ranked among NYC's Top Workplaces

June 25, 2024 - Design / Build

Manhattan, NY Global engineering services leader DeSimone Consulting Engineering New York headquarters has been ranked among the Top Workplaces in the city by Schneps Media's amNYmetro and Energage.

DeSimone's New York office, led by chairman and CEO Stephen DeSimone, has earned a reputation as a structural engineering pioneer for over 50 years, making an impact on the city's skyline while building an exemplary workplace culture of respect, innovation, and opportunity for employees.

Most recently, DeSimone's expertise in office-to-apartment conversions has been showcased in such major redevelopments as the award-winning One Wall St. and the Mandarin Oriental Residences at 685 Fifth Ave. DeSimone is currently completing work on the transformation of the historic Terminal Warehouse at 261 11th Ave. into a 1.2 million s/f office complex.

DeSimone was ranked among Top Workplaces for its support of employees even as it pursues the highest standards of engineering excellence. The result was based entirely on employee feedback gathered through an engagement survey covering a range of areas, including best practices in company leadership, communication, appreciation, direction, working environment, managerial skills, wages, and benefits.

Team members lauded DeSimone's commitment to creating a culture of respect and support, reporting they felt part of something meaningful and empowered to advance in their careers. DeSimone's efforts to run the company effectively and profitably earned a 100% rating by employees.

Said Stephen DeSimone, "We believe that providing an inspiring and supportive work environment empowers our teams to produce exceptional work. It is incredibly rewarding that our team members have shared their positive experiences with the DeSimone culture through this survey, the results of which will guide our ongoing initiatives to foster a dynamic and inclusive workplace."

In its efforts to enhance the workplace, DeSimone Consulting Engineering promotes an office environment built on open dialogue, with regular town hall meetings and monthly seminars. It offers tuition reimbursement, continuing education, a hybrid work schedule, and an extensive array of benefits and wellness programs.

The amNYmetro honor follows Top Workplaces recognition from USA Today and the South Florida Sun Sentinel. DeSimone was also named Architecture & Engineering MVP at Deltek ProjectCon 2023 for its effective leveraging of technology to improve efficiencies and integrate new offices and personnel as it continues its global growth.

"Earning a Top Workplaces award is a badge of honor for companies, especially because it comes authentically from their employees," said Eric Rubino, Energage CEO.
