Farmingdale, NY The Real Estate Institute (REI) at Stony Brook University (SBU) College of Business announced an upcoming joint panel event on November 19th, 2024. The fall luncheon, titled "Communities Before and After New Multifamily Development - Exploring Empirical Data," promises an exploration of the evolving landscape of solutions to Long Island's housing crisis. This event aims to bring together industry experts and thought leaders to share their perspectives on the future of multifamily development on Long Island.

Panelists include: Christopher Capece, president of Heatherwood Luxury Rentals; Peter Curry, partner at Farrell Fritz, P.C.; Kyle Strober, executive director Association for a Better Long Island; and Deirdre O'Connell, CEO of Daniel Gale Sotheby's International Realty.

The moderator will be David Pennetta, executive managing director at Cushman & Wakefield L.I.

Registration will commence at 11:15 a.m. The luncheon and panel discussion will begin at 12:15 p.m.

The luncheon will be held at Heritage Club at Bethpage, 99 Quaker Meeting House Rd., Farmingdale.
